Notes to candidate:

1. Training:

The work should include planning, specification writing, interviews with the client, writing of proposals to the client, analysis of results, and writing of the final report to the client. General office administration such as personnel management, logistics and financial management may also be included. The work include office and field work, however field work may not exceed more than 10% of the work.

A detailed daily diary of all work undertaken during the training period must be kept. This diary must give an adequate description of the work done, the dates and the category of work with the number of working days in each category.

The use of modern technology is essential and the candidate must be proficient with this technology.

2. WIL Schedule:

When applying to the Council for evaluation of his/her WIL, the candidate shall supply a WIL Schedule as an extract from the diary prepared in the form of the attached specimen. This schedule must be compiled in chronological order and totalled. Each page must be signed by the mentor (with whom the candidate has trained) and the candidate.

The WIL schedule must contain an adequate description of the work performed to enable the Council to evaluate the type and scope of the work completed.

The detailed day to day diary from which the training schedule is an extract must be retained by the candidate in the event of the Council requiring more detailed information.

Should the Council be of the opinion that the learning is inadequate or does not cover a wide scope of work, it may require the candidate to undergo further training.

3. Mentor:

A mentor must be a registered, practising Professional GISc Practitioner who has been practising as such for a minimum period of five years post registration. Provided that the Council may, on written application by the mentor, relax the requirement of the five years experience. Provided further that where the experience to be gained is in a field of expertise that could not normally be obtained under the guidance of a Professional GISc Practitioner then, with the consent of the Council, such experience may be obtained under the personal supervision of a suitably qualified person.

Every mentor must provide, directly to the Council, a confidential written assessment on the competency of the candidate which assessment must include, inter alia, the type of experience gained by the candidate while in his or her employ, with emphasis on the professional aspects such as dealings with clients, attitude to senior and subordinate co-workers and assistants, punctuality and reliability and management skills acquired.

A person who has been found guilty of improper conduct or is practicing under threat of a suspended sentence may not act as a mentor.
